With the emphasis going against the 4 percent of drunk drivers who cause almost 50 percent of auto accidents and insurance rates going up, up, up, there may be fewer drunks driving and hotrods dragging.

Can you imagine what it would cost a single, male drunk driver, under 25, who cracks into other people with any regularity?

Second offenders now are subject to grand jury indictment for DWI, a felony rap, meaning probation or prison.

Insurance for driving even sober when you're male, and 25, can be $503 if caught on two speeding violations.

The Governor says it's time to throw the charge sheet at drunk drivers. It is suggested first offenders may lose their license, let alone pay a hefty fine.

NOW-NOW-NOW

At the rate it's going, drinking while driving will be a pastime which only the rich, chauffeured drinker may enjoy. That is, if his chauffeur can handle his limit. And it is possible "doing well while doing good" may mean loaning the under-25, male hotrodder who tipples a chauffeur for the drive to the dragstrip or for his date.

The 4 percent figure of drunk drivers just about tallies the amount of alcohol it takes in the bloodstream to be legally intoxicated. No one knows what the percentage is for the illegally intoxicated.

And if the new insurance rates go into effect, the young, drunk driver will pay about $550 to $600 for an insurance policy, then lose his license.

Since all this runs into economic dynamics of a new and different kind, we suggest that auto insurance payments be paid like car payments. After all, what percentage of the cost of a new car is $503?

NOW-NOW-NOW

For the 96 percent sober drivers who cause the other half of the accidents, it will be even more sobering when the insurance bills are in.

Maybe there won't be so many cracked windshields replaced under comprehensive coverage even when the sun cracked them.

Maybe Texas insurance companies can give credit to the sober driver who doesn't have wrecks. Maybe some kind of credit system.

Maybe we can build a cross-state public transportation system, running roughly from Houston to Dallas to Fort Worth to San Antonio, with connecting lines between.

After all, Cong. Poage notes the limitations of mail service by wheeled vehicle. Maybe if he can get mail trains on the line, we can get passenger service too.

Then the drunks won't cause 50 percent of the accidents. They can be hauled by rail, which, of course raises another question: who helps them on and off the train?

One thing is certain: people will be drinking less on the highway, which is no assurance they will be drinking less. Maybe more in one place.

Accident Kills R'dale Youth

Holiday Hunting Mishaps Claim Life, Injure 1

A 15 year old Rockdale High School freshman was killed and a Temple man injured in separate hunting accidents shortly after noon Thursday in West Milam County.

Randy Eugene Lane of Rt. 3 Rockdale died in a Taylor hospital of head injuries caused by blast from a 410 gauge shotgun. The accident occured at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. W. J. Gilchrist of Thorndale.

Lane and his uncles were going hunting following Thanksgiving dinner. Sheriff Carl Black said the group went to Lane's car to get his shotgun and that as he pulled it from the car it accidentally discharged, hitting him in the left side of the head.

Just before the Lane accident, a Temple man was injured in a hunting accident near Davilla.

William Overton of Temple was treated for gunshot wounds in the hand and shoulder following a hunting accident on the Ronny Gilleland farm. His companions Robert Killingsworth and Bill Ray Jenkins, told Sheriff Carl Black that Overton stumbled, accidentally firing his 12 gauge shotgun.

The Lane youth was the second in his family to die accidentally. A young brother, James Truett Lane drowned in a boating accident at Holtzclaw Bridge on July 16, 1964.

Randy Lane was a member of the Rockdale FFA and Rockdale Roping and Cutting Club.

He is survived by his father and stepmother, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Lane of Rockdale; his mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Lange of Midland; grandparents, Mrs. W. J. Gilchrist of Thorndale and Mrs. R. E. Lane of Elgin; stepgrandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Holton of Rockdale and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lange of Thrall; a great grandmother, Mrs. J. E. Jones of Thornton; two sisters, Amanda Lane and Denise Ann Lange of Midland; four brothers, George Lee Lane, Thomas Lane and Eddie Lane, all of Rockdale, and Rupert Lange of Midland.

Funeral services were at 2 p.m. Saturday at Condra Memorial Chapel in Taylor, Rev. John Buck officiating. Burial was in Lawrence Chapel Cemetery.

Mail Early Is PO Plea

Now that you've finished with the turkey, it's time to start thinking about Christmas. At least, that's what the Post Office Department says.

Recommended mailing dates for holiday packages and greeting cards are being publicized in an effort to avoid the yearly last-minute rush and resulting confusion in post offices across the nation.

Military mail going overseas should have been posted by now, according to the schedule, to assure delivery before Christmas.

The post office urges mailing parcels to distant states by Dec. 1 and greeting cards by Dec. 10. Surface mail for Alaska and Hawaii -- parcels by Nov. 30 and cards by Dec. 4. Air mail users have a little more time -- Dec. 14 is the recommended deadline.

Packages mailed to local and nearby areas should be gone by Dec. 11, and cards by Dec. 15.

Cameron Postmaster N. L. Caperton said these are suggested latest dates by which Christmas mail should be deposited, bur urged customers to mail earlier wherever possible.

Complete information about recommended dates for all mail is available at the local post office.

Writer Recalls Last 'Eagle' Ride

By Lloyd Albertson

When the Texas Railroad Commission recently granted the Missouri Pacific Railroad permission to discontinue its Texas Eagle, it meant that the historic passenger train, running daily between Texarkana and Laredo for many years, had reached the end of the line.

Newspaper accounts reporting the famous old train's demise blamed it on lack of patronage by the public -- claiming the passenger train was outmoded and could not compete with the convenience of buses or the speed of today's jet planes.

Maybe so. But riding the train can still be a very pleasant experience -- as this writer discovered again when making one of his infrequent trips on the Eagle down to San Antonio last summer.

The trip started at Milano. The timetable had scheduled the southbound Eagle to arrive there at 8:58 a.m., but when I bought my ticket in the small depot the clerk on duty said the train was running fifteen or twenty minutes late.

The depot at Milano, since it serves both the Missouri Pacific and Santa Fe Railroads, is really a union station, but undoubtedly must be the smallest one in the country. Its waiting room has little more than enough space to accomodate four chairs for customers. I was the only one waiting that morning.

Occasionally a brief snatch of radio conversation about some activity up or down the line came from the adjoining office. But presently I realized there was no staccato chatter of a telegraph clicking out Morse code -- a familiar sound heard around a small town depot in earlier days.

"You don't use the telegraph for messages any more?" I asked the clerk casually.

He shook his head. "Just radio and the telephone. We haven't used the telegraph in some time."

"Wonder what happened to all of the old telegraph operators?"

"I guess most of them are still around," he said. "But working at other jobs. . .And nobody learns it any more, of course. No use."

So the telegraph operator, once as much a part of railroad operation as the engineer, brakeman or conductor, was gone from the scene. It pointed up how much times were changing for the railroads.

When the Eagle came in a few minutes later it was a very short train -- just a baggage car, diner and two coaches. The conductor greeted me with a genial smile when I got aboard, probably glad to have one more passenger. He took my ticket, stowed my suitcase in the luggage rack and waved me to a seat in the coach, where there were at most a dozen passengers.

We were already moving, having made one of those silky - smooth starts possible only with a diesel locomotive, so that it is hard to tell when the train really began to move. I settled in my seat and watched the scenery glide past. We were picking up speed and it was evident the engineer was trying to make up the lost time and bring the Texas Eagle into San Antonio on time.

The telegraph operator may be gone now, outmoded by radio and the telephone, but the railroad conductor is still around and very much in evidence. Maybe he's a little older than those conductors on the crack passenger trains during railroading's heyday. But he still has some of the talents of those old time public relations men of railway travel.

And I realized presently our conductor was one of them as a conversation he was having with a little blonde cutie began to drift my way.

He stopped her as she passed his seat coming back down the aisle from the water cooler. Maybe he had noticed she looked a little bored, even though it probably was her first train ride.

"Hi," he said. "What's your name?"

She studied him a moment and then said it was Sharon.

"Sharon. Umm. How old are you, Sharon?"

She held up her hand, fingers spread.

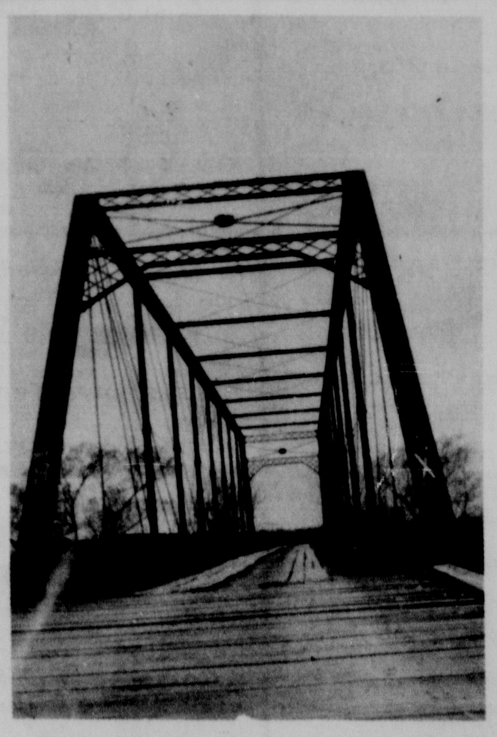
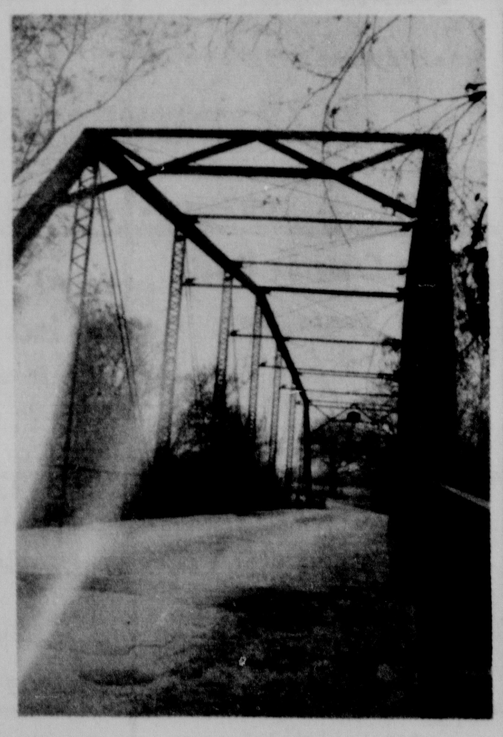
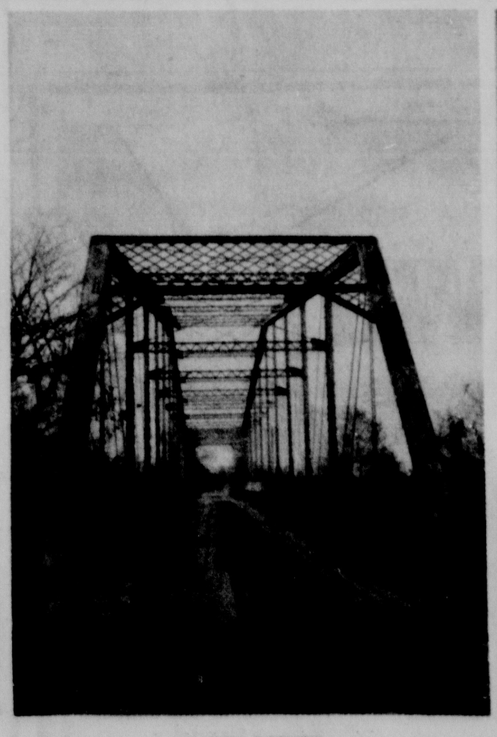
CUMMINGS CROSSING BRIDGE



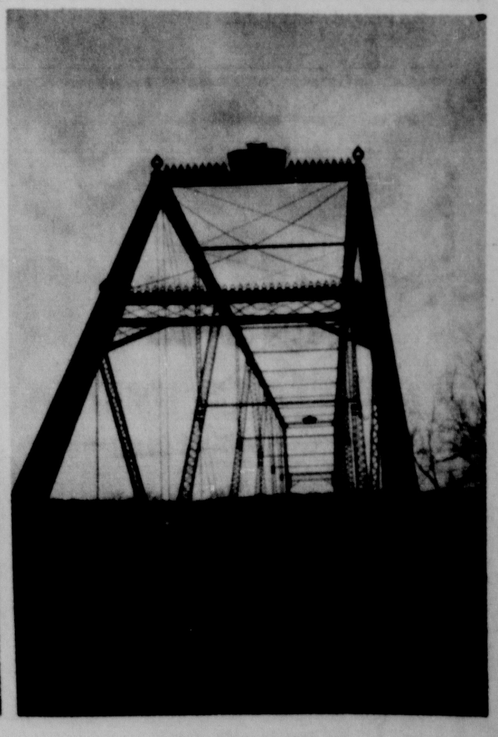
TWO RIVERS BRIDGE



MARLOW BRIDGE



FAUBIN BRIDGE



BLACK BRIDGE

CONCRETE BRIDGES are fast replacing the stately steel suspension bridges across the country. In Milam County only 6 remain in use. The oldest of these are Bryant Station bridge and Cummings Crossing Bridge (far left) which bears the date 1891. Worn wooden beams support the aged steel girders and rickety wooden roadway. Next in age and design is the Two Rivers Bridge near Sharp. The Marlow Bridge that joins Cameron and Marlow beyond the Cameron Country Club was built in 1919. Newest of the steel bridges is the Faubin Bridge near Gause. This is probably the most romatic with names like "Sue and Grover" painted across the high reaching beans. This bridge orginally spanned Little River at Cameron near the site of the Highway 36 concrete bridge now in use. Milam County's 6th bridge, the tall and elaborate Black Bridge that joins Milam and Robertson Counties was built in 1900. The original crossing at that point was a wooden toll bridge built by August Clinton Black, grandfather of Milam County Sheriff Carl Black. Black Bridge is 370 ft. long with a 14'4" wooden roadway. It has been declared unsafe and a new concrete bridge, now about half completed, will replace it. Highway dept. officials have announced that the old supports will be left and an appropriate historical marker will be erected.

State Industrial Financing....

The experts agree that a state financing program for industry, particularly for communities under 100,000, is a solution to small-city industrial funding.

Recommendation came from a spokesman of the insurance industry while a bank spokesman emphasized that commercial banks are uninterested in long-term industrial loans.

These facts came out during the Central Texas Industrial Development Conference in Waco last week.

Also noted was the availability of funds from Small Business Administration, which earlier in the year seemed unavailable, at least in information given Cameron Industrial Foundation.

A state industrial funding system is used in a number of states, particularly in neighboring Oklahoma. The program there is effective.

Texas has an industrial commission which is quite effective in industrial prospecting for the state. But no means for smaller cities now exists other than local financing, which, with the exception of contributions like those in Cameron, is difficult to locate for long-term payout.

A solution is the state financing system, based on selling bonds, loanable at relative low rates to communities having all else but long-term financing.

Cameron Industrial Foundation is currently working on a drive for $35,000 to continue a series of successful moves in industrial financing here. A combination of SBA, bank and CIF funding has contributed to new payrolls.

The additional SBA fund and a state program of industrial finance would add to the considerable success local financing of industry has enjoyed.

The Library Drive....

Quite a number of fund drives are underway or finishing up prior to December.

The United Fund is going for $8,000 on its way to higher numbers. And the Industrial Foundation has reached about $10,000 on its way toward $35,000 in pledges and cash for a continued industrial effort here.

Yet a third drive approaches $1,000, going for a goal of about $1,300. This drive is the Friends of the Library effort, 90 percent of which goes to Cameron Public Library for additional books.

Each drive is making headway and the reasons for success for United Fund and CIF are obvious.

But the library funding is particularly important this year because of $1,000 the Cameron Public Library is contributing toward a leveling of its foundation. The additional funds raised by Library Friends will replace this $1,000 which the library board normally would use for books and operating expenses of other kinds.

So support for Friend's drive has special incentive this year, as does support for CIF in continuing its impressive story and a bigger United Fund serving at least half dozen agencies.

Remember Library Friends as well. A modern library is an asset in a community attracting industry and serving its own agencies like Scouting, Salvation Army and USO.

Young Boy Scouts Enjoy First Camp-out

Boy Scout Troop 791 of Cameron held its first overnight camping trip November 21 and 22. The troop left early Saturday morning and traveled to Belton Lake.

The boys learned many new camping skills, earning awards toward advancement. Each patrol was responsible for preparing its meals and washing up afterward. The boys learned to prepare, cook, and serve meals outdoors.

One of the most exciting and challenging activities on the outing was hiking five miles, and the boys climbed cliffs and explored caves found in the rock formations.

The troop expressed appreciation to its sponsor, the Methodist Men's Bible Class, for donating the tents which made the trip possible.

Attending the overnight camp were Brian Wilkinson, Richard Raymond, Jim McCullin, Aaron Miller, Robert Miller, Richard Trubee, Kelley Coleman, Craig Harper and George Robertson. Leaders were Scoutmaster Ernest Moore and Asst. Scoutmaster James Hudson.

Tips From Tippit

What's your immediate reaction when you're driving along the highway and you hear a police siren? Or when you see a policeman writing a ticket for a protesting motorist? Or when you spot a patrol car in your rear-view mirror?

What do you do? Do you become more cautious and alert? Do you slow down ever so slightly?

If you answered yes, perhaps you should re-examine your driving habits and attitudes and do a little thinking about the true measure of good driving.

The defensive driver does all the things he should be doing behind the wheel. . . whether the law is there or not.

The proper defensive driver is always confident that he's driving with due regard for traffic conditions, other motorists and yes, even with due regard for the possibility of the law lurking just around the corner.

WACO

Former Texas governor, John Connally, will be the featured speaker at a dinner honoring Congressman W. R. "Bob" Poage of Waco at Ridgewood Country Club in Waco on December 7.

Governor Connally's speech will climax a day's activities on the James Connally Campus of the Texas State Technical Institute in tribute to Congressman Poage's 34 year service in Congress and for his efforts in the field of technical education.

Connally was one of the principles in the creation of the James Connally Technical Institute which later became the Texas State Technical Institute. He will arrive by private aircraft on the James Connally Airport late on the afternoon of December 7.

More than 300 persons from across the nation are expected to be on hand at the appreciation banquet for Congressman Poage. The banquet is being sponsored by the Technical Foundation of America. Hosts for the evening will be Varo, Incorporated of Garland, Texas.

Other honored guests scheduled to be present for the Poage appreciation dinner include Congressman James Wright of the 12th Congressional District.

The program on December 7 will include a welcome by J. H. Kultgen, chairman of the Board of Regents of the Texas State Technical Institute, following the invocation by Rev. Roy Sherrod, Dr. Roy Dugger, president of TSTI, will serve as master of ceremonies. Governor Connally will be introduced by Harry Provence, editor in chief of Newspapers, Incorporated. Following the Governor's address, Congressman Poage is scheduled for a response.

Later in the evening, A. S. Koehler, president of Wyatt C. Hedrick Architects and Engineers, Incorporated of Houston and Waco, will present a model of the proposed W. R. Poage Land Technology Center to be located on the James Connally Campus of TSTI.

Koehler will explain the function of the center which is estimated to cost between three and one half and five million dollars which will be constructed on the north side of the James Connally Campus.

Following the presentation of the model, Wacoan Bernard Rapoport will introduce Congressman Wright who will give the closing remarks for the evening.

Earlier in the day, TSTI will hold an all day open house for visitors who would like to see the state's first technical institute in operation. All laboratories and classes will be open for the public's inspection.

At 4 p.m. in the Student Center, a public reception will be held for Congressman Poage. Friends of the Congressman from the 11th Congressional District are expected to attend.

BACK WAGES DUE

Members of the working poor -- earning less than the lowest of the family income budgets established by the Bureau of Labor Statistics -- were found to compose 86 percent of the 124,000 workers due back wages of $27 million in the first quarter of fiscal 1971, according to the Labor Department's Wage and Hour Division.

BUSINESS REVIEW

Cameron Lumber Co. Is A Decorator's Paradise

If you want a decorator for Christmas, try Charles Chandler at Cameron Lumber Co., one of the oldest established lumber and decorating centers in Central Texas.

Chandler, assisted by Gene Marak, a veteran of eight years with the firm, offers 1,000, count them, 1,000 colors for decorating that room, that exterior, that whole house, Christmas or any time.

How can he do it? It's easy with Colony paints' instant color, liquid powder paint system, guaranteed for color accuracy.

If 1,000 paints aren't enough, how about pre-finished paneling and moldings, a big variety of finishes and tones in a variety of prices.

Cameron Lumber, of course, sells standard lumber and roofing materials. It always has. The firm traces founding as Jeter Lumber Co. about 1890, which successively became Woodson Lumber, Wiese Lumber and finally Cameron Lumber Co.

Its location across from City Hall is an advantage that Chandler enjoys. He has been around the building and lumber business all his life, 12 years which have been spent in paint and decorating sales, wholesale and retail, in Austin and Cameron.

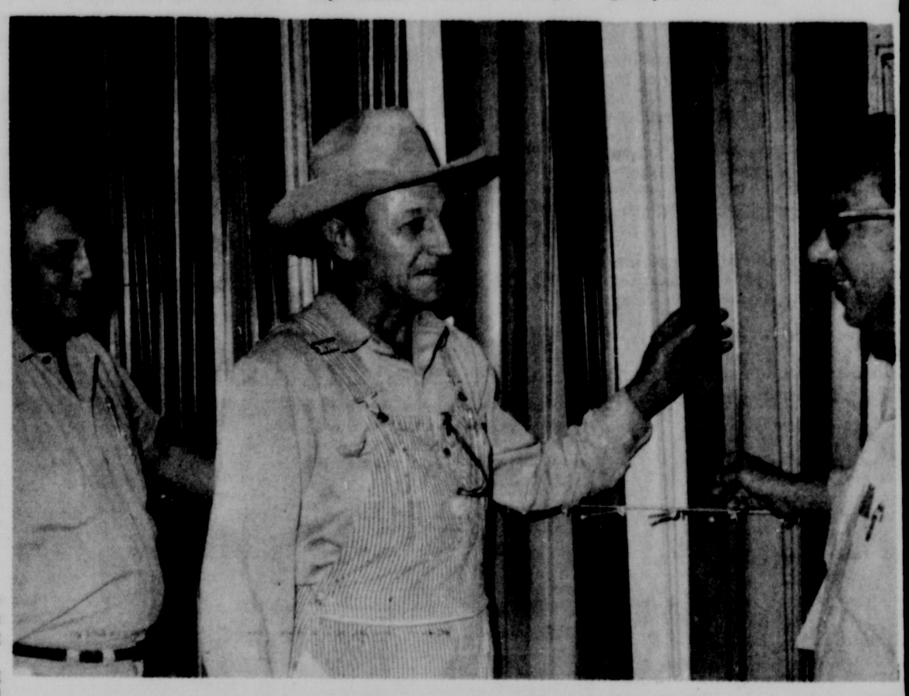
Other items to go with the basic paint, wood and panel needs are readily available. Ceiling tile, hardware and builder supplies, a complete line of plumbing equipment, carpenter tools, yard equipment, a picture framing service, aluminum window screen service are a part of the Cameron Lumber merchandise picture.

Remodeling work and addition to houses are a speciality which fits with the line of materials and services available at Cameron Lumber Co. They even handle a line of glass, cut to size, for windows, counters and other glass needs.

Chandler is a draftsman and knows design. He can advise on color combinations, room arrangements because he has the experience.

He could be your "Santa builder" this Christmas when a new room, a new color scheme inside or out of your house might be just "the" present your family wants and needs.

Try Chandler Lumber Co. Ask for Charles Chandler. You'll be glad you did.



Santas Save Money At Ben Franklin Variety

Christmas is a time for Santas to shop Ben Franklin in Cameron for all the toys and gift ideas on Christmas lists.

The locally owned Ben Franklin variety store, one of 2,400 franchised dealers in the U.S., has the merchandise at prices important to gifting this Christmas, 1970.

The brand names are there, also, and the variety to choose from is particularly complete as November closes.

Porter Young, co-owner along with N. L. Caperton, points the special offering of toys, brand names in games, dolls and toys by Ideal, Mattel and Play School.

"Hot Wheels", one of the most popular of racing toy sets on the market, is a feature item of Ben Franklin toy department.

And, of course, tree and house decorations are fully stocked to go with the necessaries of a bright Christmas for the kids.

If it is gift items for other members of the family, they are available throughout the departmentalized variety store at 107 West Main, downtown.

Brands like Timex, General Electric, Little Majesty, Silex, Waring and numerous others pop up throughout household, gift, cosmetic, lingerie and infant wear, sewing material and notions, window shade and drapery hardware departments. Staples for everyday are always available, even during special Christmas displays.

Small appliances at prices starting at $7.77 are available in blenders, toasters, mixers, irons, clock radios and others.

It requires quite a staff of full and parttime personnel to keep the familiar white-front variety store, with the big, red "BEN FRANKLIN", operating to please the modern buyer.

Assisting Young are: Miss Hazel Williams, Mrs. L. J. Matula, Jr., Miss Francis Zotz, Mrs. I. J. Williams, Miss Bridgette Martin and Eugene Mitchan, Jr.

An additional department unique in Cameron's Ben Franklin is the Western Union office.

By far, main service is given to the shopper who wants good merchandise at reasonable, if not sometime ridiculously reasonable prices. Ben Franklin buying power makes it possible.

Remember, then, Christmastime is Ben Franklin time in Cameron and the Milam area. And Porter Young, his staff and a modern line of gift ideas are the Christmas combination that will help Santas please and surprise this Christmas morning.

Eagle from page 1

"Five. Whereabouts do you live?"

"We live in Austin," she said.

"Sharon, you got a dog?" he asked. And when she nodded: "What's his name?"

"Herbie," she said.

"Herbie. That's a funny name for a dog."

"He's a funny dog," she told him. "Do you give him a cup of coffee for breakfast?"

She shook her head and looked at him suspiciously.

"We used to have a dog," he said, "and we always gave him a cup of coffee with his breakfast. He wouldn't eat his breakfast unless he had a cup of coffee first. One morning my wife forgot to give him a cup of coffee and he got mad and ran way and we never saw him again."

Sharon looked as if she wasn't about to buy that story. Then she smiled. "I've got to go back to Mamma," she said, and went on down the aisle.

When the tran arrived at the station in Austin and she and her mother were getting off, Sharon gave the conductor a final friendly wave and a smile.

As the train pulled out, for a moment the big State Capitol building could be seen far up Congress Avenue, then it was crossing the bridge over the Colorado and picking up speed, and the scenery was gliding past again. We left San Marcos and New Braunfels behind, and soon were in the outskirts of San Antonio.

The train was slackening speed as the residential streets slid by, and presently down an avenue there was a view of the city's spectacular downtown skyline, dominated by the Tower of the Americas built for HemisFair. Then the train was coming into the station and stopping with a hissing of air brakes.

"Well, what do you know!" a passenger said, glancing at his watch. "We're here right on time."

I joined the other passengers crowding into the aisle, collected my suitcase, and walked down the platform the short distance to the ornate old station with its 19th Century architecture.

The Texas Eagle runs no more. The end for it came suddenly on Monday, September 21, when the Railroad Commission granted Missouri Pacific's request to discontinue it. Within hours the railroad's management ordered train crews to stop at their destinations -- the southbound train at Laredo, the northbound at Texarkana.

MISSOURI PACIFIC " TEXAS EAGLE "

One newspaper account said the northbound Eagle carried only about 30 passengers when it pulled into the Texarkana station. MoPac claimed the trains were losing about $500,000 a year.

The cancellation of the Eagles ended 89 years of passenger train service for the railroad.

It began back in the 1870s when Jay Gould, the New York financier, started building his International & Great Northern Railroad from Texarkana to Hearne, and then in 1874 to Rockdale, causing the founding of that city.

Its lines were extended to San Antonion on February 16, 1881, and were completed to Laredo on December 31 that same year. The International & Great Northern -- I&GN for short -- became part of the Missouri Pacific Railroad system many years ago.

The heyday of the passenger train probably was during the last two decades of the 19th Century and the first two decades of the Twentieth. That was when many of the famous trains -- such as MoPac's Texas Eagle -- brought glamour to railroading.

Times began to change for them during the 1930s. World War II's demands gave them a brief respite, but after that the competition of buses, cars and planes began to tell, and one after another the famous old time trains departed the scene. The Texas Eagle was only the latest on the list.

Missouri Pacific likely can get along very well with just running its freight trains. But it won't be the same. Because it was their passenger trains that helped make the railroads into the giants they were in the old days.

And it was its Eagles, no doubt, that enabled the old International & Great Northern to become one of the major Texas railroads and to make its boast:

"Everything good for the sons of men Grows along the lines of the I&GN."

New Instructions Alter Year-End Draft Policy

AUSTIN

Colonel Charles M. Duncan, acting state Selective Service Director, said Tuesday that recent instructions issued to local board personnel by Dr. Curtis W. Tarr, National Director of Selective Service, alter the year-end policy announced last month by the Selective Service System.

Duncan said that registrants wishing to drop deferments and be reclassified into class I-A status to take advantage of the year-end policy, have been given until midnight, December 31, 1970, to file for the reclassification. Such requests may be received by local boards by that date or carry a postmark dated December 31, 1970 or earlier.

These instructions alter previous policy which stated that the application had to be in the hands of local board personnel prior to a December meeting of the local board.

In particular, the instruction to local boards will be of interest to men who hold high numbers in the 1970 draft lottery.

Should a young man hold a number higher than that reached by his local board--and No. 195 has been set as the highest number which any local board can reach--it is to his advantage to voluntarily give up his deferment for a I-A classification.

In these cases, he will move to the Second Draft Priority Group on January 1, 1971, rather than to the First Priority Group upon termination of his deferment.

While recognizing that young men holding lottery numbers over their local board "high" could effectively limit their vulnerability to the draft by being classified into I-A by the year's end, Dr. Tarr stated that "the law allows young men to elect whether they will apply for a deferment and those young men granted deferments should be able to drop them if they desire."

The types of deferments affected by the memorandum are high school and college deferments, occupational deferments, agricultural deferments, paternity and hardship deferments.

The I-Y classification, unacceptable for military service except in national emergency, is not affected by this new policy. Men classified I-Y are not able to voluntarily drop this classification.

Dr. Tarr pointed out that all deferments are issued for limited periods of time, generally for one year, and that it is the responsibility of the registrant to submit documentation for an extension of his deferment.

In the absence of documentation, the new local board memorandum instructs local boards to promptly classify registrants into I-A. This means that registrants wishing to continue their deferments should submit the supporting documentation to their local boards.

Buck Deer Pulls Switch On Hunter

Here's a switch on the usual hunter-stalks-deer tale. This one has the deer attacking the hunter:

Edward Matthews, 52, of Grand Junction, Colorado was suddenly attacked by a buck deer during the pre-dawn darkness while he was looking for his hunting site.

After being knocked from his feet, Matthews managed to recover his rifle and fire it point-blank into the buck while being trampled.

A news release from the Division of Game, Fish and Parks of the Colorado Department of Natural Resources said Matthews ignored the pain of a broken left leg and other wounds to field dress the buck before hobbling back to camp.

Big Tax Bill Faces Solons Says Kubiak

At a pre-session legislative conference held in Austin last week state legislators heard House Speaker Gus Mutscher state that the minimum tax bill needed for the next biennium will be around $600 million.

Rep. Dan Kubiak in his Nov. 27 newsletter said he met with "many legislators who, like myself, will not support non-essential spending nor any tax bill of this magnitude."

Members of the House Tax Committee met with legislators Tuesday. All indicators point toward increasing the sales tax from 4 1/4 to 5 percent, Kubiak said.

Other possible sources of additional revenue will be the corporate profits tax, a liquor by the drink tax and an increase in the tax on natural resources, legislators were told.

"I maintain that we must curb spending and eliminate non-essential expenditures in order to avoid a tax bill of any magnitude," Rep. Kubiak stated.

If all farms with a value of production of less than $2,500 were eliminated, we'd have 42% fewer farms. If that figure was raised to less than $5,000, we'd lose 56% of our farms, and at $10,000 we'd lose 72% of them.

Conviction Brings Probated Sentence

Kenneth Teal of Cameron was convicted of robbery in Milam County District Court Friday and received a three-year probated sentence.

According to County Atty. John Henderson Jr., the case involved the robbery of a Houston man near Buckholts on March 14, 1970.

With the emphasis going against the 4 percent of drunk drivers who cause almost 50 percent of auto accidents and insurance rates going up, up, up, there may be fewer drunks driving and hotrods dragging.

Can you imagine what it would cost a single, male drunk driver, under 25, who cracks into other people with any regularity?

Second offenders now are subject to grand jury indictment for DWI, a felony rap, meaning probation or prison.

Insurance for driving even sober when you're male, and 25, can be $503 if caught on two speeding violations.

The Governor says it's time to throw the charge sheet at drunk drivers. It is suggested first offenders may lose their license, let alone pay a hefty fine.

NOW-NOW-NOW

At the rate it's going, drinking while driving will be a pastime which only the rich, chauffeured drinker may enjoy. That is, if his chauffeur can handle his limit. And it is possible "doing well while doing good" may mean loaning the under-25, male hotrodder who tipples a chauffeur for the drive to the dragstrip or for his date.

The 4 percent figure of drunk drivers just about tallies the amount of alcohol it takes in the bloodstream to be legally intoxicated. No one knows what the percentage is for the illegally intoxicated.

And if the new insurance rates go into effect, the young, drunk driver will pay about $550 to $600 for an insurance policy, then lose his license.

Since all this runs into economic dynamics of a new and different kind, we suggest that auto insurance payments be paid like car payments. After all, what percentage of the cost of a new car is $503?

NOW-NOW-NOW

For the 96 percent sober drivers who cause the other half of the accidents, it will be even more sobering when the insurance bills are in.

Maybe there won't be so many cracked windshields replaced under comprehensive coverage even when the sun cracked them.

Maybe Texas insurance companies can give credit to the sober driver who doesn't have wrecks. Maybe some kind of credit system.

Maybe we can build a cross-state public transportation system, running roughly from Houston to Dallas to Fort Worth to San Antonio, with connecting lines between.

After all, Cong. Poage notes the limitations of mail service by wheeled vehicle. Maybe if he can get mail trains on the line, we can get passenger service too.

Then the drunks won't cause 50 percent of the accidents. They can be hauled by rail, which, of course raises another question: who helps them on and off the train?

One thing is certain: people will be drinking less on the highway, which is no assurance they will be drinking less. Maybe more in one place.

EARLY CHRISTMAS SHOPPERS were out in full force the day after Thanksgiving, taking advantage of nice weather while it lasted. These Cameron boys made their first stop in a local variety store at the toy gun counter, naturally. Checking the new "weapon" assortment are twins Donald and Ronald Engelke, front and older brother Bobby.

Accident Kills R'dale Youth

Holiday Hunting Mishaps Claim Life, Injure 1

A 15 year old Rockdale High School freshman was killed and a Temple man injured in separate hunting accidents shortly after noon Thursday in West Milam County.

Randy Eugene Lane of Rt. 3 Rockdale died in a Taylor hospital of head injuries caused by blast from a 410 gauge shotgun. The accident occured at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. W. J. Gilchrist of Thorndale.

Lane and his uncles were going hunting following Thanksgiving dinner. Sheriff Carl Black said the group went to Lane's car to get his shotgun and that as he pulled it from the car it accidentally discharged, hitting him in the left side of the head.

Just before the Lane accident, a Temple man was injured in a hunting accident near Davilla.

William Overton of Temple was treated for gunshot wounds in the hand and shoulder following a hunting accident on the Ronny Gilleland farm. His companions Robert Killingsworth and Bill Ray Jenkins, told Sheriff Carl Black that Overton stumbled, accidentally firing his 12 gauge shotgun.

The Lane youth was the second in his family to die accidentally. A young brother, James Truett Lane drowned in a boating accident at Holtzclaw Bridge on July 16, 1964.

Randy Lane was a member of the Rockdale FFA and Rockdale Roping and Cutting Club.

He is survived by his father and stepmother, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Lane of Rockdale; his mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Lange of Midland; grandparents, Mrs. W. J. Gilchrist of Thorndale and Mrs. R. E. Lane of Elgin; stepgrandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Holton of Rockdale and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lange of Thrall; a great grandmother, Mrs. J. E. Jones of Thornton; two sisters, Amanda Lane and Denise Ann Lange of Midland; four brothers, George Lee Lane, Thomas Lane and Eddie Lane, all of Rockdale, and Rupert Lange of Midland.

Funeral services were at 2 p.m. Saturday at Condra Memorial Chapel in Taylor, Rev. John Buck officiating. Burial was in Lawrence Chapel Cemetery.

Mail Early Is PO Plea

Now that you've finished with the turkey, it's time to start thinking about Christmas. At least, that's what the Post Office Department says.

Recommended mailing dates for holiday packages and greeting cards are being publicized in an effort to avoid the yearly last-minute rush and resulting confusion in post offices across the nation.

Military mail going overseas should have been posted by now, according to the schedule, to assure delivery before Christmas.

The post office urges mailing parcels to distant states by Dec. 1 and greeting cards by Dec. 10. Surface mail for Alaska and Hawaii -- parcels by Nov. 30 and cards by Dec. 4. Air mail users have a little more time -- Dec. 14 is the recommended deadline.

Packages mailed to local and nearby areas should be gone by Dec. 11, and cards by Dec. 15.

Cameron Postmaster N. L. Caperton said these are suggested latest dates by which Christmas mail should be deposited, bur urged customers to mail earlier wherever possible.

Complete information about recommended dates for all mail is available at the local post office.

Writer Recalls Last 'Eagle' Ride

By Lloyd Albertson

When the Texas Railroad Commission recently granted the Missouri Pacific Railroad permission to discontinue its Texas Eagle, it meant that the historic passenger train, running daily between Texarkana and Laredo for many years, had reached the end of the line.

Newspaper accounts reporting the famous old train's demise blamed it on lack of patronage by the public -- claiming the passenger train was outmoded and could not compete with the convenience of buses or the speed of today's jet planes.

Maybe so. But riding the train can still be a very pleasant experience -- as this writer discovered again when making one of his infrequent trips on the Eagle down to San Antonio last summer.

The trip started at Milano. The timetable had scheduled the southbound Eagle to arrive there at 8:58 a.m., but when I bought my ticket in the small depot the clerk on duty said the train was running fifteen or twenty minutes late.

The depot at Milano, since it serves both the Missouri Pacific and Santa Fe Railroads, is really a union station, but undoubtedly must be the smallest one in the country. Its waiting room has little more than enough space to accomodate four chairs for customers. I was the only one waiting that morning.

Occasionally a brief snatch of radio conversation about some activity up or down the line came from the adjoining office. But presently I realized there was no staccato chatter of a telegraph clicking out Morse code -- a familiar sound heard around a small town depot in earlier days.

"You don't use the telegraph for messages any more?" I asked the clerk casually.

He shook his head. "Just radio and the telephone. We haven't used the telegraph in some time."

"Wonder what happened to all of the old telegraph operators?"

"I guess most of them are still around," he said. "But working at other jobs. . .And nobody learns it any more, of course. No use."

So the telegraph operator, once as much a part of railroad operation as the engineer, brakeman or conductor, was gone from the scene. It pointed up how much times were changing for the railroads.

When the Eagle came in a few minutes later it was a very short train -- just a baggage car, diner and two coaches. The conductor greeted me with a genial smile when I got aboard, probably glad to have one more passenger. He took my ticket, stowed my suitcase in the luggage rack and waved me to a seat in the coach, where there were at most a dozen passengers.

We were already moving, having made one of those silky - smooth starts possible only with a diesel locomotive, so that it is hard to tell when the train really began to move. I settled in my seat and watched the scenery glide past. We were picking up speed and it was evident the engineer was trying to make up the lost time and bring the Texas Eagle into San Antonio on time.

The telegraph operator may be gone now, outmoded by radio and the telephone, but the railroad conductor is still around and very much in evidence. Maybe he's a little older than those conductors on the crack passenger trains during railroading's heyday. But he still has some of the talents of those old time public relations men of railway travel.

And I realized presently our conductor was one of them as a conversation he was having with a little blonde cutie began to drift my way.

He stopped her as she passed his seat coming back down the aisle from the water cooler. Maybe he had noticed she looked a little bored, even though it probably was her first train ride.

"Hi," he said. "What's your name?"

She studied him a moment and then said it was Sharon.

"Sharon. Umm. How old are you, Sharon?"

She held up her hand, fingers spread.

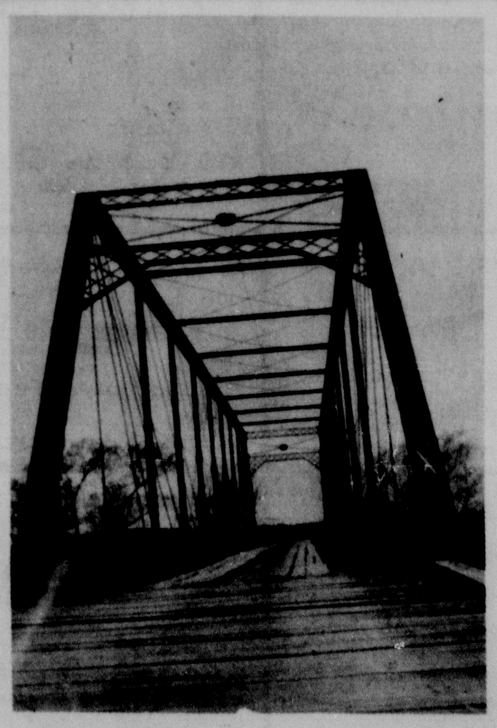
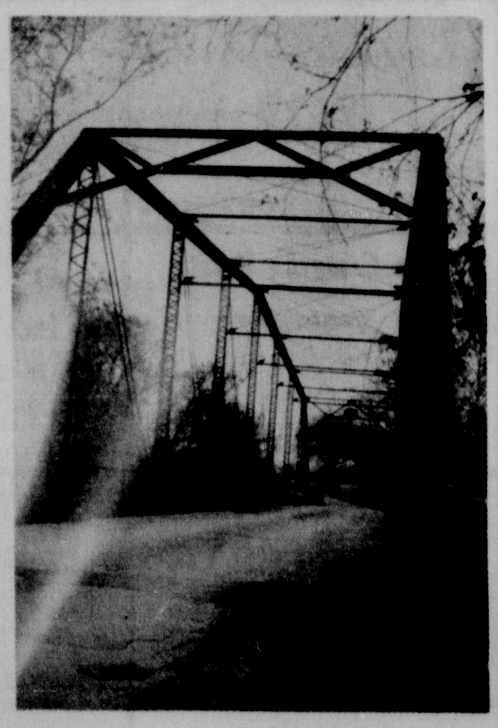
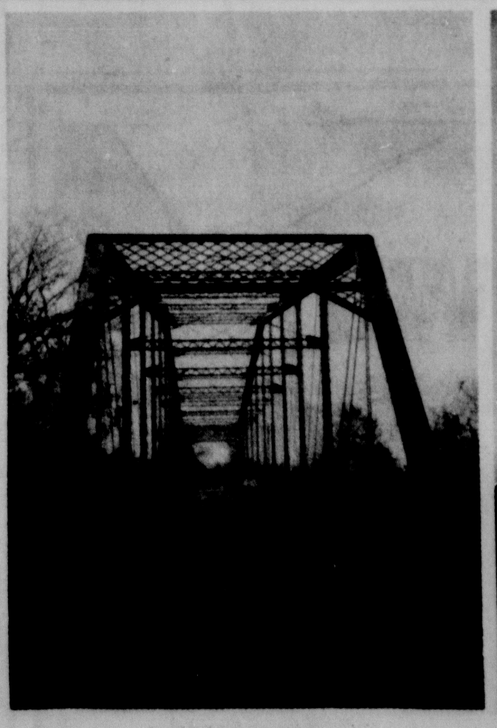
CUMMINGS CROSSING BRIDGE



TWO RIVERS BRIDGE



MARLOW BRIDGE



FAUBIN BRIDGE

BLACK BRIDGE

CONCRETE BRIDGES are fast replacing the stately steel suspension bridges across the country. In Milam County only 6 remain in use. The oldest of these are Bryant Station bridge and Cummings Crossing Bridge (far left) which bears the date 1891. Worn wooden beams support the aged steel girders and rickety wooden roadway. Next in age and design is the Two Rivers Bridge near Sharp. The Marlow Bridge that joins Cameron and Marlow beyond the Cameron Country Club was built in 1919. Newest of the steel bridges is the Faubin Bridge near Gause. This is probably the most romatic with names like "Sue and Grover" painted across the high reaching beans. This bridge orginally spanned Little River at Cameron near the site of the Highway 36 concrete bridge now in use. Milam County's 6th bridge, the tall and elaborate Black Bridge that joins Milam and Robertson Counties was built in 1900. The original crossing at that point was a wooden toll bridge built by August Clinton Black, grandfather of Milam County Sheriff Carl Black. Black Bridge is 370 ft. long with a 14'4" wooden roadway. It has been declared unsafe and a new concrete bridge, now about half completed, will replace it. Highway dept. officials have announced that the old supports will be left and an appropriate historical marker will be erected.

State Industrial Financing....

The experts agree that a state financing program for industry, particularly for communities under 100,000, is a solution to small-city industrial funding.

Recommendation came from a spokesman of the insurance industry while a bank spokesman emphasized that commercial banks are uninterested in long-term industrial loans.

These facts came out during the Central Texas Industrial Development Conference in Waco last week.

Also noted was the availability of funds from Small Business Administration, which earlier in the year seemed unavailable, at least in information given Cameron Industrial Foundation.

A state industrial funding system is used in a number of states, particularly in neighboring Oklahoma. The program there is effective.

Texas has an industrial commission which is quite effective in industrial prospecting for the state. But no means for smaller cities now exists other than local financing, which, with the exception of contributions like those in Cameron, is difficult to locate for long-term payout.

A solution is the state financing system, based on selling bonds, loanable at relative low rates to communities having all else but long-term financing.

Cameron Industrial Foundation is currently working on a drive for $35,000 to continue a series of successful moves in industrial financing here. A combination of SBA, bank and CIF funding has contributed to new payrolls.

The additional SBA fund and a state program of industrial finance would add to the considerable success local financing of industry has enjoyed.

The Library Drive....

Quite a number of fund drives are underway or finishing up prior to December.

The United Fund is going for $8,000 on its way to higher numbers. And the Industrial Foundation has reached about $10,000 on its way toward $35,000 in pledges and cash for a continued industrial effort here.

Yet a third drive approaches $1,000, going for a goal of about $1,300. This drive is the Friends of the Library effort, 90 percent of which goes to Cameron Public Library for additional books.

Each drive is making headway and the reasons for success for United Fund and CIF are obvious.

But the library funding is particularly important this year because of $1,000 the Cameron Public Library is contributing toward a leveling of its foundation. The additional funds raised by Library Friends will replace this $1,000 which the library board normally would use for books and operating expenses of other kinds.

So support for Friend's drive has special incentive this year, as does support for CIF in continuing its impressive story and a bigger United Fund serving at least half dozen agencies.

Remember Library Friends as well. A modern library is an asset in a community attracting industry and serving its own agencies like Scouting, Salvation Army and USO.

Young Boy Scouts Enjoy First Camp-out

Boy Scout Troop 791 of Cameron held its first overnight camping trip November 21 and 22. The troop left early Saturday morning and traveled to Belton Lake.

The boys learned many new camping skills, earning awards toward advancement. Each patrol was responsible for preparing its meals and washing up afterward. The boys learned to prepare, cook, and serve meals outdoors.

One of the most exciting and challenging activities on the outing was hiking five miles, and the boys climbed cliffs and explored caves found in the rock formations.

The troop expressed appreciation to its sponsor, the Methodist Men's Bible Class, for donating the tents which made the trip possible.

Attending the overnight camp were Brian Wilkinson, Richard Raymond, Jim McCullin, Aaron Miller, Robert Miller, Richard Trubee, Kelley Coleman, Craig Harper and George Robertson. Leaders were Scoutmaster Ernest Moore and Asst. Scoutmaster James Hudson.

Tips From Tippit

What's your immediate reaction when you're driving along the highway and you hear a police siren? Or when you see a policeman writing a ticket for a protesting motorist? Or when you spot a patrol car in your rear-view mirror?

What do you do? Do you become more cautious and alert? Do you slow down ever so slightly?

If you answered yes, perhaps you should re-examine your driving habits and attitudes and do a little thinking about the true measure of good driving.

The defensive driver does all the things he should be doing behind the wheel. . .whether the law is there or not.

The proper defensive driver is always confident that he's driving with due regard for traffic conditions, other motorists and yes, even with due regard for the possibility of the law lurking just around the corner.

Connally Will Speak At Poage Banquet In Waco

WACO

Former Texas governor, John Connally, will be the featured speaker at a dinner honoring Congressman W. R. "Bob" Poage of Waco at Ridgewood Country Club in Waco on December 7.

Governor Connally's speech will climax a day's activities on the James Connally Campus of the Texas State Technical Institute in tribute to Congressman Poage's 34 year service in Congress and for his efforts in the field of technical education.

Connally was one of the principles in the creation of the James Connally Technical Institute which later became the Texas State Technical Institute. He will arrive by private aircraft on the James Connally Airport late on the afternoon of December 7.

More than 300 persons from across the nation are expected to be on hand at the appreciation banquet for Congressman Poage. The banquet is being sponsored by the Technical Foundation of America. Hosts for the evening will be Varo, Incorporated of Garland, Texas.

Other honored guests scheduled to be present for the Poage appreciation dinner include Congressman James Wright of the 12th Congressional District.

The program on December 7 will include a welcome by J. H. Kultgen, chairman of the Board of Regents of the Texas State Technical Institute, following the invocation by Rev. Roy Sherrod, Dr. Roy Dugger, president of TSTI, will serve as master of ceremonies. Governor Connally will be introduced by Harry Provence, editor in chief of Newspapers, Incorporated. Following the Governor's address, Congressman Poage is scheduled for a response.

Later in the evening, A. S. Koehler, president of Wyatt C. Hedrick Architects and Engineers, Incorporated of Houston and Waco, will present a model of the proposed W. R. Poage Land Technology Center to be located on the James Connally Campus of TSTI.

Koehler will explain the function of the center which is estimated to cost between three and one half and five million dollars which will be constructed on the north side of the James Connally Campus.

Following the presentation of the model, Wacoan Bernard Rapoport will introduce Congressman Wright who will give the closing remarks for the evening.

Earlier in the day, TSTI will hold an all day open house for visitors who would like to see the state's first technical institute in operation. All laboratories and classes will be open for the public's inspection.

At 4 p.m. in the Student Center, a public reception will be held for Congressman Poage. Friends of the Congressman from the 11th Congressional District are expected to attend.

BACK WAGES DUE

Members of the working poor -- earning less than the lowest of the family income budgets established by the Bureau of Labor Statistics -- were found to compose 86 percent of the 124,000 workers due back wages of $27 million in the first quarter of fiscal 1971, according to the Labor Department's Wage and Hour Division.

BUSINESS REVIEW

Cameron Lumber Co. Is A Decorator's Paradise

If you want a decorator for Christmas, try Charles Chandler at Cameron Lumber Co., one of the oldest established lumber and decorating centers in Central Texas.

Chandler, assisted by Gene Marak, a veteran of eight years with the firm, offers 1,000, count them, 1,000 colors for decorating that room, that exterior, that whole house, Christmas or any time.

How can he do it? It's easy with Colony paints' instant color, liquid powder paint system, guaranteed for color accuracy.

If 1,000 paints aren't enough, how about pre-finished paneling and moldings, a big variety of finishes and tones in a variety of prices.

Cameron Lumber, of course, sells standard lumber and roofing materials. It always has. The firm traces founding as Jeter Lumber Co. about 1890, which successively became Woodson Lumber, Wiese Lumber and finally Cameron Lumber Co.

Its location across from City Hall is an advantage that Chandler enjoys. He has been around the building and lumber business all his life, 12 years which have been spent in paint and decorating sales, wholesale and retail, in Austin and Cameron.

Other items to go with the basic paint, wood and panel needs are readily available. Ceiling tile, hardware and builder supplies, a complete line of plumbing equipment, carpenter tools, yard equipment, a picture framing service, aluminum window screen service are a part of the Cameron Lumber merchandise picture.

Remodeling work and addition to houses are a speciality which fits with the line of materials and services available at Cameron Lumber Co. They even handle a line of glass, cut to size, for windows, counters and other glass needs.

Chandler is a draftsman and knows design. He can advise on color combinations, room arrangements because he has the experience.

He could be your "Santa builder" this Christmas when a new room, a new color scheme inside or out of your house might be just "the" present your family wants and needs.

Try Chandler Lumber Co. Ask for Charles Chandler. You'll be glad you did.

Santas Save Money At Ben Franklin Variety

Christmas is a time for Santas to shop Ben Franklin in Cameron for all the toys and gift ideas on Christmas lists.

The locally owned Ben Franklin variety store, one of 2,400 franchised dealers in the U.S., has the merchandise at prices important to gifting this Christmas, 1970.

The brand names are there, also, and the variety to choose from is particularly complete as November closes.

Porter Young, co-owner along with N. L. Caperton, points the special offering of toys, brand names in games, dolls and toys by Ideal, Mattel and Play School.

"Hot Wheels", one of the most popular of racing toy sets on the market, is a feature item of Ben Franklin toy department.

And, of course, tree and house decorations are fully stocked to go with the necessaries of a bright Christmas for the kids.

If it is gift items for other members of the family, they are available throughout the departmentalized variety store at 107 West Main, downtown.

Brands like Timex, General Electric, Little Majesty, Silex, Waring and numerous others pop up throughout household, gift, cosmetic, lingerie and infant wear, sewing material and notions, window shade and drapery hardware departments. Staples for everyday are always available, even during special Christmas displays.

Small appliances at prices starting at $7.77 are available in blenders, toasters, mixers, irons, clock radios and others.

It requires quite a staff of full and parttime personnel to keep the familiar white-front variety store, with the big, red "BEN FRANKLIN", operating to please the modern buyer.

Assisting Young are: Miss Hazel Williams, Mrs. L. J. Matula, Jr., Miss Francis Zotz, Mrs. I. J. Williams, Miss Bridgette Martin and Eugene Mitchan, Jr.

An additional department unique in Cameron's Ben Franklin is the Western Union office.

By far, main service is given to the shopper who wants good merchandise at reasonable, if not sometime ridiculously reasonable prices. Ben Franklin buying power makes it possible.

Remember, then, Christmastime is Ben Franklin time in Cameron and the Milam area. And Porter Young, his staff and a modern line of gift ideas are the Christmas combination that will help Santas please and surprise this Christmas morning.

"Five. Whereabouts do you live?"

"We live in Austin," she said.

"Sharon, you got a dog?" he asked. And when she nodded: "What's his name?"

"Herbie," she said.

"Herbie. That's a funny name for a dog."

"He's a funny dog," she told him.

"Do you give him a cup of coffee for breakfast?"

She shook her head and looked at him suspiciously.

"We used to have a dog," he said, "and we always gave him a cup of coffee with his breakfast. He wouldn't eat his breakfast unless he had a cup of coffee first. One morning my wife forgot to give him a cup of coffee and he got mad and ran way and we never saw him again."

Sharon looked as if she wasn't about to buy that story. Then she smiled. "I've got to go back to Mamma," she said, and went on down the aisle.

When the tran arrived at the station in Austin and she and her mother were getting off, Sharon gave the conductor a final friendly wave and a smile.

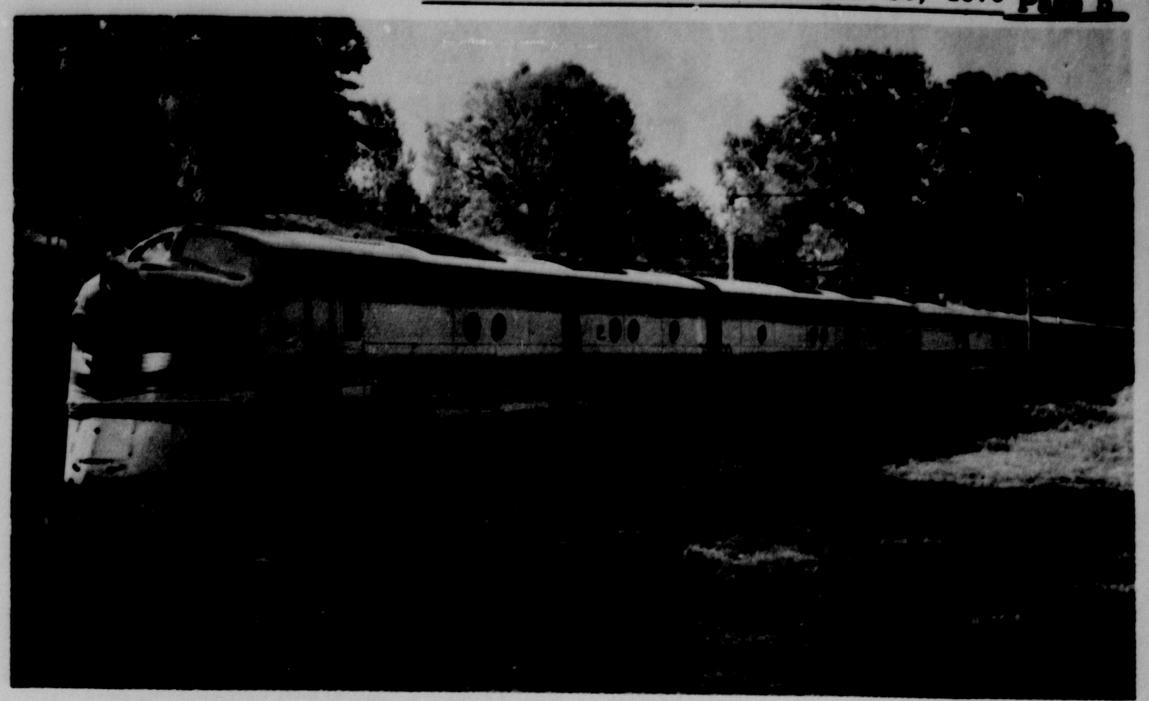
As the train pulled out, for a moment the big State Capitol building could be seen far up Congress Avenue, then it was crossing the bridge over the Colorado and picking up speed, and the scenery was gliding past again. We left San Marcos and New Braunfels behind, and soon were in the outskirts of San Antonio.

The train was slackening speed as the residential streets slid by, and presently down an avenue there was a view of the city's spectacular downtown skyline, dominated by the Tower of the Americas built for HemisFair. Then the train was coming into the station and stopping with a hissing of air brakes.

"Well, what do you know!" a passenger said, glancing at his watch. "We're here right on time."

I joined the other passengers crowding into the aisle, collected my suitcase, and walked down the platform the short distance to the ornate old station with its 19th Century architecture.

The Texas Eagle runs no more. The end for it came suddenly on Monday, September 21, when the Railroad Commission granted Missouri Pacific's request to discontinue it. Within hours the railroad's management ordered train crews to stop at their destinations -- the southbound train at Laredo, the northbound at Texarkana.



MISSOURI PACIFIC " TEXAS EAGLE "

One newspaper account said the northbound Eagle carried only about 30 passengers when it pulled into the Texarkana station. MoPac claimed the trains were losing about $500,000 a year.

The cancellation of the Eagles ended 89 years of passenger train service for the railroad.

It began back in the 1870s when Jay Gould, the New York financier, started building his International & Great Northern Railroad from Texarkana to Hearne, and then in 1874 to Rockdale, causing the founding of that city.

Its lines were extended to San Antonion on February 16, 1881, and were completed to Laredo on December 31 that same year. The International & Great Northern -- I&GN for short -- became part of the Missouri Pacific Railroad system many years ago.

The heyday of the passenger train probably was during the last two decades of the 19th Century and the first two decades of the Twentieth. That was when many of the famous trains -- such as MoPac's Texas Eagle -- brought glamour to railroading.

Times began to change for them during the 1930s. World War II's demands gave them a brief respite, but after that the competition of buses, cars and planes began to tell, and one after another the famous old time trains departed the scene. The Texas Eagle was only the latest on the list.

Missouri Pacific likely can get along very well with just running its freight trains. But it won't be the same. Because it was their passenger trains that helped make the railroads into the giants they were in the old days.

And it was its Eagles, no doubt, that enabled the old International & Great Northern to become one of the major Texas railroads and to make its boast:

"Everything good for the sons of men Grows along the lines of the I&GN."

New Instructions Alter Year-End Draft Policy

AUSTIN

Colonel Charles M. Duncan, acting state Selective Service Director, said Tuesday that recent instructions issued to local board personnel by Dr. Curtis W. Tarr, National Director of Selective Service, alter the year-end policy announced last month by the Selective Service System.

Duncan said that registrants wishing to drop deferments and be reclassified into class I-A status to take advantage of the year-end policy, have been given until midnight, December 31, 1970, to file for the reclassification. Such requests may be received by local boards by that date or carry a postmark dated December 31, 1970 or earlier.

These instructions alter previous policy which stated that the application had to be in the hands of local board personnel prior to a December meeting of the local board.

In particular, the instruction to local boards will be of interest to men who hold high numbers in the 1970 draft lottery.

Should a young man hold a number higher than that reached by his local board--and No. 195 has been set as the highest number which any local board can reach--it is to his advantage to voluntarily give up his deferment for a I-A classification.

In these cases, he will move to the Second Draft Priority Group on January 1, 1971, rather than to the First Priority Group upon termination of his deferment.

While recognizing that young men holding lottery numbers over their local board "high" could effectively limit their vulnerability to the draft by being classified into I-A by the year's end, Dr. Tarr stated that "the law allows young men to elect whether they will apply for a deferment and those young men granted deferments should be able to drop them if they desire."

The types of deferments affected by the memorandum are high school and college deferments, occupational deferments, agricultural deferments, paternity and hardship deferments.

The I-Y classification, unacceptable for military service except in national emergency, is not affected by this new policy. Men classified I-Y are not able to voluntarily drop this classification.

Dr. Tarr pointed out that all deferments are issued for limited periods of time, generally for one year, and that it is the responsibility of the registrant to submit documentation for an extension of his deferment.

In the absence of documentation, the new local board memorandum instructs local boards to promptly classify registrants into I-A. This means that registrants wishing to continue their deferments should submit the supporting documentation to their local boards.

Buck Deer Pulls Switch On Hunter

Here's a switch on the usual hunter-stalks-deer tale. This one has the deer attacking the hunter.

Edward Matthews, 52, of Grand Junction, Colorado was suddenly attacked by a buck deer during the pre-dawn darkness while he was looking for his hunting site.

After being knocked from his feet, Matthews managed to recover his rifle and fire it point-blank into the buck while being trampled.

A news release from the Division of Game, Fish and Parks of the Colorado Department of Natural Resources said Matthews ignored the pain of a broken left leg and other wounds to field dress the buck before hobbling back to camp.

Big Tax Bill Faces Solons Says Kubiak

At a pre-session legislative conference held in Austin last week state legislators heard House Speaker Gus Mutscher state that the minimum tax bill needed for the next biennium will be around $600 million.

Rep. Dan Kubiak in his Nov. 27 newsletter said he met with "many legislators who, like myself, will not support non-essential spending nor any tax bill of this magnitude."

Members of the House Tax Committee met with legislators Tuesday. All indicators point toward increasing the sales tax from 4 1/4 to 5 percent, Kubiak said.

Other possible sources of additional revenue will be the corporate profits tax, a liquor by the drink tax and an increase in the tax on natural resources, legislators were told.

"I maintain that we must curb spending and eliminate non-essential expenditures in order to avoid a tax bill of any magnitude," Rep. Kubiak stated.

If all farms with a value of production of less than $2,500 were eliminated, we'd have 42% fewer farms. If that figure was raised to less than $5,000, we'd lose 56% of our farms, and at $10,000 we'd lose 72% of them.

Conviction Brings Probated Sentence

Kenneth Teal of Cameron was convicted of robbery in Milam County District Court Friday and received a three-year probated sentence.

According to County Atty. John Henderson Jr., the case involved the robbery of a Houston man near Buckholts on March 14, 1970.
